Council Appeal to Utilities Board for Reduction in Light and Power Charges

The regular monthly meeting of the Village Council was held in the Fire Hall on Monday last. Those present included Mayor Williams and Councillors Assmussen and Nichol.

The Mayor brought forward a report from the committee formed at the last meeting, that they had decided to purchase two dozen sanitary pails from the Western Steel Co., Calgary, and in producing these pails the Company claims they would last three times as long as those in use at the present time.

A communication was read from C. W. May, the assessor for 1932 re Canadian Bank of Commerce assessment. He states the assessment should be raised to $110.00 in place of $140.00 as it now stands. The Council approved of the increase of the assessment and instructed the Secretary to write to Mr. May to that effect, and also to state that he meet the Council at a date named by him before March 1st.

In a reply to a communication from the Salvation Army asking for a donation, the Mayor moved that a letter be sent them stating that he gave their representative permission last week to canvas the town and this was as much as the Village could contribute to their funds under present conditions.

The Executive Committee of the Curling Club had already asked the Council to bring up the matter of rent for the Curling Rink at this meeting. The Council decided if they paid $15.00 arrears and $27.00 for this season they would be satisfied with this amount.

Mayor Williams then brought to the attention of the meeting the charges made by the Calgary Power Co. for lights and power in the town, and after discussing the matter, the Mayor moved that the Calgary Power Co. be written to and state that owing to conditions the Village feels entitled to a reduced rate and that the Council is taking the matter up with the Public Utilities Board.

It was then moved by Councillor Assmussen that the 10 per cent discount on Village Taxes be extended until December 31st.

Local News

The Inverlea School Christmas Tree Entertainment, and Dance to follow, will be held in the school house on Monday, Dec. 19.

Louis Overby, the ice man, has been working overtime lately, and we understand that he will have the ice ready for the roarin' game on Monday.

Keep in mind the Board of Trade luncheon and business meeting in the Oliver Cafe on Thursday evening December 15 at 6.45. Rev Currie will be the speaker.

On account of the extreme cold the Ladies Aid meeting which was to have been held Dec. 7th has been postponed until Wednesday, Dec 14th. It will be held at the home of Mrs. Strala.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Potter of Rocroft, five miles west of Spirit River, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fox. Mr. Potter is the station agent at Rocroft and is a brother of Mrs. Fox.

The Summit Hill School Christmas Tree and Entertainment will be held in the school on Friday evening, December 23rd. Miss Grace Williams extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend.

There will be no Chautauqua in Crossfield next year. The local guarantors—twenty-seven of them—paid the full amount of the contract, which amounted to $8.00 each. No, no, the Chautauqua people did not split up the loss—they got their pound of flesh, and a soldier's farewell.

Crossfield Percheron Winner at Chicago

Starlight La. (13574) the 2,100 pound three year-old Percheron stallion, bred by Hardy E. Salter, on his farm at Crossfield, won third in a class of eighteen, at the Chicago International last week.

When it is remembered that Chicago is the centre of Percheron breeding, and that the International is the greatest show of this breed in the world, the achievement of this Alberta bred stallion is considered so much the greater by local horsemen.

This stallion was included in the five that won first for the five best stallions at the show. He was bought at the Toronto Royal Show in November by the National Breweries, Ltd. for $1,500 and was shown by them at Chicago.

Local Board of Trade To Visit Calgary Board of Trade

After the announcement made in this paper two weeks ago that our Board had received an invitation to visit the Calgary Board of Trade, we are now in a position to state that their secretary Mr. J. Hann has written inviting as many members as possible of our Board to a luncheon on Friday at noon Dec. 16th.

As many of our readers are aware, the Calgary Board of Trade has always been ready to co-operate with the local Board, and assist in anything of a public nature that would benefit the community and we may go further and state there is no other Board of Trade in the Province which can claim closer associations with the Calgary Board of Trade than our own.

In making these statements the Calgary Board realizes that the Crossfield district has done and is still doing much to the welfare of the Province. We have only to make mention of the success just recently made at the Toronto Royal Show of Frank Collicutt with his prize Herefords, which means that the name of Crossfield has been mentioned many times within the past four weeks, not only in Eastern Canada but from east to west of the Dominion.

Here is another opportunity for the citizens of Crossfield and district to keep the name of their community to the fore by every member of the Board taking advantage of the invitation received from the Calgary Board of Trade.

HERE'S A SOUND REASON FOR TRADING AT HOME

Last week one of our farmers whose crop is still in the field and as a consequence he is without money, called on one of our business men and asked for credit.

The merchant said, "Sure Bill" you have been trading with us for some time and paid your account regularly, we'll be glad to help you now."

Suppose this farmer had been spending his money out of town with one of the big department stores. We just wonder if he would be able to get credit from the out of town store. We believe not.

It pays to trade at home among your own people, people who know you and when you get up against it, as we all do sometimes, are willing to help you out.

With Christmas only 2 weeks away, it is a wise person who will commence now to make provision for that happy season. Merchants are decorating their stores in readiness and appropriate stocks will occupy window space to attract buyers. Do your Christmas shopping early is good advice to one and all.

Miss Alice Collicutt and Miss Patterson spent the week-end in Calgary.

Now-- All Together.

Municipal and school board elections are over for another year throughout Canada's western provinces. Reports indicate that generally speaking, the elections this year were marked with a vigor surpassing that which would characterize such contests. This, no doubt, is but another result of the difficult and critical times through which the world is passing, the inevitable outcome of which is discontent, dissatisfaction with whatever is done, no matter what its nature may be, or who may be responsible for the doing of it. Another factor accounting for the keenness of many contests was the entry of a political party in Provincial and Federal affairs into the realm of municipal affairs, thus introducing a new element, and in some cases a new bitterness, into municipal and school board elections.

It is no doubt true that at no time can men and women, clothed with responsibility by their fellow citizens to direct public policies and manage public affairs, please all classes. No matter what they may do, or may leave undone, certain people will be dissatisfied. This, however, is especially true at a time like the present when all governing bodies are confronted with the two-fold task on exercising the strictest economy on the one hand, and of being faced with the necessity of making extraordinary expenditures on the other hand. Both these things must be done—the first because of falling revenues resulting from the inability of many people to pay taxes, and the second because prevailing conditions make it obligatory to provide work or relief for countless numbers of people. The result is a demand for more and more so-called "free" services on the part of governments, for people who have not the means to obtain these services for themselves, at a time when governments cannot possibly get the money to pay for the aforesaid "free" services.

Dissatisfaction and discontent, ending in unreasonableness on the part of many, is the inevitable result. Those things which many people are demanding, if granted, mean the imposition of still heavier burdens on others who are making a valiant struggle to keep their own heads above water and not become charges on the community. Those whom the citizen ship made responsible for administration of public policies and affairs thus found themselves between two fires, and, with their hands tied financially, making it impossible for them to do many of the things they undoubtedly would have been glad to do were it only possible.

Some experienced and conscientious public servants have, as a result of this general dissatisfaction, been deposed, their places on public bodies being taken by others, some of whom, again, have captured the popular fancy and support as a result of more or less sweeping promises which they will soon discover they, too, with all the best intention in the world, will be unable to realize.

Service on municipal councils, school boards, and other public bodies is at best and under the most favorable circumstances, a more or less thankless task, while under present prevailing adverse conditions it is even more so, inviting, as it does, little but abuse, misrepresentation of motives and acts, and loss of whatever popularity a person may have possessed. Such service also involves no small sacrifice on the part of the person accepting public office. In these days it requires every moment of one's time and energies to keep their own personal business matters in solvent shape—eject of them means disaster.

But service on public bodies is a public duty. It is a duty that must be discharged by some one, and those who are willing to make the sacrifice are deserving of the thanks and cordial goodwill of their fellow citizens, regardless of the fact that their every act may not meet with approval.

Therefore, now that the smoke of our municipal and school board battles has floated away, now that the decisions of the majority have been rendered, it behoves all citizens of good will, and loyal to the democratic institutions of this country, to get behind their representatives whenever they may be, and, irrespective of the fact whether they were their personal choice or not, give them a helping hand. Let carpentry criticism now cease. Let all personalities be forgotten. Rather, let one and all stand unitedly in support of their elected representatives and work harmoniously together with one single purpose of doing the best possible under existing circumstances, helping each other, and thereby helping all.

And it is so doing greater consideration may well be given to this important fact which too many people are rather inclined in these troublous days to forget, namely, that more can be learned from the experiences of the past than from all the text books of theories or the idealistic visions of inexperienced and untried visionaries. What is good in the past we should retain, while that which through experience we have found to be weak and faulty should be redefined or relegated, perhaps substituted, with some correction, has shown to be needed, rather than to invent some purely theoretical idea which, when put to the test of practical operation, is more likely than not to lead us in a deeper morass than the one from which we are striving to extricate ourselves.

Trap For Smugglers

"Wall Of Invisible Rays" On Germany's Western Frontier

An invisible wall which nobody can penetrate unnoticed will soon be "erected" at certain points of Germany's western frontier as the latest device against smugglers.

It is a "wall of invisible rays" which cannot be seen or felt; but whoever penetrates this wall starts an alarm in the Customs office. There are four points on the frontier where the intruder has crossed the frontier. A special device informs the officers of "blind alarms" by hares, dogs or deer.

Awarded Damages

Parisian Detective Sues Taxi Company For Injury To His Nose

Detectors must have two good noses—one for crime and another on the face. That is why a magistrate in Paris has awarded $1,000 damages to a sleuth attached to a police squad for the suppression of gambling. The detective had sued a taxi company because his nose had been injured in a taxi accident and he could no longer carry on his work at race tracks because "he would immediately be recognized on account of his injured nose."

Woman Is Honored
 By French Legion

Old Tradition Has Been Shattered
 For Second Time

An old tradition which dates back to Napoleon's time when a keen French woman from rising in grade in the Legion of Honor has been shattered by the award of the rank of Commander of the Legion to a woman, for the second time in history.

Mme. Philippe de Vilomorin, millionaire business woman and one of the world's greatest dealers in seeds and grains, has been promoted from Officer to Commander, joining in that rank Countess de Noailles, poetess, the only other woman Commander in the Legion's history.

The promotion came in the distribution of 600 ribbons and rosettes of the Legion of Honor to reward services rendered towards the success of the Colonial Exposition. Madame de Vilomorin had created the floral decoration of the exposition grounds.

Widowed during the war, Mme. de Vilomorin left the front, where she had won citations as a war nurse, and took charge of the 200-year-old grain firm.

She travelled through Africa, India, China, Java, Egypt, Australia and the Americas to sell and improve the quality of tobacco, rice, coffee, peanuts and other colonial crops. She operates agronomic laboratories and largely responsible for saving the French cut-flower industry from ruinous Dutch and Italian competition.

Reproduction Of Old Temple

Took Centuries To Build But Duplcate Took Sixty Days

The Chicago World's Fair breaks the record for the great Maya temple that is to be a dominating feature. It reproduces the temple at Uxmal Yucatan, built more than 1,000 years ago by the most enlightened aborigines of North America. The original was generations in building, the duplicate goes up in 60 days. With electric cutting tools the grotesque head of a Mayan god can be turned out in a few hours; but the original Maya, who did not even know how to harden copper spent a lifetime in bringing a facsimile of it into existence.

The temple alone will serve all the ends of a world's fair—it will be a palm of the world's fair—it will be a palm of the rise of man.—Christian Science Monitor.

An excellent protection against worms can be got in Miller's Worm Powder. They render the stomach and intestines uncontrollable. They are influenced by the attacks of the parasites and serve to restore the strength of the child that has been undermined by the draughts that the worms have made upon it, and their operation is altogether health-giving.

Grain Storage Rates

Charge For Grain Storage Has Now Been Reduced

The rate of charge for grain storage, elevator and other services at country and terminal elevators, has been reduced by the government at one-forty-fifth of a cent per bushel per day, a decrease from the rate of one-thirtieth of a cent at present in force. The change is made by virtue of the recent amendment to the Canada Grain Act, which places the power to take such action in the hands of the Board of Grain Commissioners. The amendment passed the House during the recently adjourned session, after a brief debate. It was sponsored by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Shanghai Has German Paper

City Now Boasts Wide Variety In Daily Newspapers

Into the babel of Shanghai's already complex newspaper world still another foreign language daily has made its debut. It is the German language Deutsches Shanghai Zeitung. Perhaps no other city in the world boasts of so many different kinds of daily papers.

Published in the English language there is the old established English journal North China Daily News, recalled because at its founding most foreigners lived in Canton, to which Shanghai was then North China, although it is far from that geographically speaking. Two American dailies, the China Press in the morning and the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury, an afternoon paper, vie with the third, the Shanghai Times, which has an English editor, although it is not of that nationality as to capital.

Bidding For Foreign Markets

Germany Plans To Send Out Floating Industrial "Fair"

In an endeavour to regain some of the foreign markets Germany lost as a result of the world war, an association of German manufacturers of Hagen, Westphalia, plan to send out a floating industrial "fair" early next year on a trade crusade to South America and the Far East, according to commerce department advice from Consul J. H. Bruns at Hamburg.

The 14,000-ton Hamburg-South American liner S.S. Cap Norte has been chartered for the "fair." It will visit more than 70 foreign ports of the world, leaving Hamburg or Bremen shortly after the first of the year and remaining away 18 months. "It will sail first to South American ports, later visiting British East India, China and Japan," the consul's report said.

The "floating fair" has been so organized that even small firms may take part in this piece of practical trade promotion. It will offer for sale and will exhibit a great range of German industrial products, especially hardware and tools."

No Place For Candy Shop

New Orleans Woman Would Open Store In Alaska

In New Orleans, La., a certain woman is thirsting for knowledge of Canada's far north. She also seeks knowledge of the Dominion's currency.

The woman, whose name was not disclosed, wrote a tourist agency at Calgary for the information as she apparently wanted to open a store in Alaska, which rests in Canada's bleak sub-Arctic.

The agency, however, told her there were no railroads to the shore coast of the Arctic ocean and that it would be doubtful if the candy and medicine business would be very profitable in that district. They also told her Canadian money was in dollars and cents not pounds and shillings as she believed.

Legend Of Bruce

Famous Bruce's Stone Is Presented To Scottish Nation

The Earl of Mar has presented to the Scottish nation the Bruce's stone.

Everybody has heard the legend of Bruce and his spider. Less familiar, is the story of the stratagem to which Bruce resorted, as he did on so many other occasions with equal success, when he was a fugitive in the Galloway Highlands. His little band of followers gathered all the horses, wild and tame, all the goats, all the four-footed creatures upon which they could lay hands. The noise of this large body and the waving of the goats' horns made the English apprehensive that there must be a large force with Bruce. Accordingly they remained in their camp, and at daybreak Bruce attacked them with such fury that they were utterly routed.

Moss Raploch, where the stone is set up, and under which Bruce rested after he had put the enemy to flight, was recently sold by the Earl of Mar to the Galloway Power Company, but the earl reserved from the sale the stone itself, together with a means of access from the main road.

"I consider it won when I sent the sample in, because it represents seven years of selection and increasing of Reward wheat, and I consider it to be my crowning achievement. It is the first time I have ever shown this outstanding strain."

"This particular wheat was the largest sample of plump and uniform kernels combined with wonderful color, making it the finest wheat ever produced on our farm. This I consider to be remarkable and it proves the wonderful quality of this new strain of Reward wheat because this large and plump type was produced under very dry conditions. It suggests that it is drought resistant, which only further growing will prove."

"I predict that this type of wheat will provide the backbone of Canada's future export business because of its higher quality."

Only four times have United States farmers won the coveted award, and of the 18 times Canadian have carried the crown to the Dominion, three farmers have won it 12 times, records show. King of them all, however, is still Seager Wheeler, whose grain from Nosthern District in the world wheat plot of Saskatchewan, has earned the title five times.

Good Progress Being Made With History Of The World War Now Being Compiled In Britain

With twenty-nine of the probable forty volumes of its history of the world war now completed, Great Britain is well ahead of all the other belligerent powers in the preparation of an official story of the events of the years 1914-1918 for the benefit of the living as well as of posterity. It is thought that the last volume will be ready twenty years hence, but that is really more of a guess than a certainty.

From the historical section of the committee of Imperial Defence, under whose aegis Britain's comprehensive memorial of the past and guide for the future is being prepared, this correspondent has just obtained a detailed account of how this herculean task is being handled. So far it has cost 200,000 pounds sterling, though that total includes the cost of archival work which would have to be done anyway.

The histories completed there are: Naval Operations, 5 volumes; Merchant Navy, 3; Sea-borne Trade, 3; Gallipoli Campaign, 2; Egypt-Palestine, 2; Mesopotamia, 4, and Togoland and Cameroons, 1. In addition to these 20 volumes there have also been issued five of the contemplated twelve dealing with the western front, three of the five dealing with the war in the air, and another—in diary form—entitled "Principal Events of the War."

At the outset of the war the British sea service numbered 660 vessels of all kinds. But by November, 1918, this force had been increased to 5,081. Each unit kept exact records of the events and movements of every hour of the day in their logs, which never numbered fewer than six in current use, and often as many as fourteen in earlier days.

It is estimated that the total number of naval logs kept during the war approximates 1,250,000. But except in the preparation of narratives of the major actions no record is not had to these original documents, for the salient points in each have been entered on cards for more easy reference. It has to be remembered, too, that telegrams passing in and out of the admiralty amounted to at least 1,000 daily, or 1,750,000 during the war. There were, besides, countless reports and Admiralty papers.

The records of the air service are only less formidable than those of the admiralty.

This vast mass of material at the disposal of the official historians has to be arranged and sifted by a staff of archival experts, one of whose tasks is to discord tons of paper dealing with matters of no permanent historical importance.

The authors appointed have the assistance of a small staff of technical specialists, including cartographers. The forty-volume history will be illustrated by hundreds of maps, plans, diagrams, sketches and charts, apart from photographs of the outer theatres of war without which it would be almost impossible to visualize the types of country in which the operations took place.

When once the narrative is committed to paper in chapter form it undergoes the minutest checking. Hundreds of copies are dispatched to officers who took part in the particular action dealt with, and after their criticisms and suggestions have been considered and, in many instances, adopted, the chapters are forwarded to the appropriate service department for remarks. In one instance a chapter was submitted to 573 officers.

No other belligerent nation, it is asserted, can show such progress with their histories, although many are said to employ far larger staffs at much greater cost. Those who carp at the cost of the work are reminded that to date the expenditure represents, roughly, half an hour's expenditure by the British in warfare during the last year of the conflict. Besides producing this colossal war story, the historical section has to deal with thousands of inquiries from other departments, regimental historians, staff colleges and the war graves commission, many of which require protected reference to the records. The circulation of draft chapters of the history entails alone the writing of 4,000 letters.

It was explained to this correspondent that even in 1914 steps were taken to collect and arrange the records as they were received for the subsequent compilation of the official histories, and the actual writing was begun in 1916. The number of records which have to be consulted is stupendous. On the military side alone the historians have immediately at hand at least 30,000,000 sheets of documents and 25,000 maps. All these are from the theatre of operations and do not include any of the multitude of "home" papers, such as war office files and the untold accumulation of other records.

Here's an individual dress you'll just love if its interesting detail.

It's cut rather along slenderizing lines, making it equally suited for the minx or the matron.

The simple treatment of the bodice is very smart. And don't you think the puffed sleeves, tightened at the wrists adorable?

A small crepe is stunning for to facings.

You can also use rough crepe silk, which is extremely voguish. Wool crepe would also prove a charming medium.

What Has Education Done?

Fails To Prepare the Mind For a Better Understanding Of the World.

If modern Europe did not see that it was an impossibility to ask vast sums of a nation while it kept her from exporting goods, what had education been doing to prepare for an understanding of the world? Ordinary education simply did not equip millions of people to see what they are doing. If education does not change, there lies ahead some kind of dictatorship, possibly Fascism. This means the end for all of us.

What has education done when we all go ahead and intensify economic nationalism of all sorts, raise tariff barriers and refuse to disarm? When we see nations go the same destructive way, we must ask, What has education done?—Sir Norman Angell.

Heroine To Fisher-Folk

Woman Missionary Has Busy Life With Herring Fleet

Writing to the News-Chronicle from the Sailors' Home at Lowestoft, England, a correspondent tells of "the mother of the herring-fleet," Sister Wray, of the Scottish-Episcopal Mission to fisher-folk. "You must see her in some tiny boat in mid-winter, crossing the mad tumble of The Little Minch over to the Hebrides or tossing in the gales that whip the waters between the mainland and the Orkneys."

"Once at Stromness, in the Orkneys, she had an SOS from 200 fisher-girls at Stromness on another island. There was no way of crossing for days, but a drifter skipper put out with a boat and a small boat to the rescue. Sister Wray reached the girls between 7:30 and 11 o'clock that evening she had treated 80 cases of sea-sickness and sepia poisoning among the girls who use the hunting knife."

"On another occasion she travelled with a dying fisherman from Shromsay to Kirkwall in a small craft in terrible weather. The boat struck a sandbank, and through that trying time Sister Wray just stayed by the side of the stricken man and carried on her nursing. We mean the drifters in," she told me, "and sometimes I have to call on the wives and break bad news." Sister Wray's whole life is spent following the herring fleet through the stormy seas off the Scottish and East Coasts. "We just mother them," she said.

Would Make For Happiness

If People Could Get Rid Of Excess Mental Baggage

From a New Zealand lecturer comes an excellent and wise piece of advice. Miss Celia Enid Bates recently said:

"Carry too much excess baggage in our minds; old failures, old unhappinesses, old hurts. If at the conclusion of each day, we emptied our minds of the ill, retaining only our happy experiences, we would not only sleep soundly, but a more positive and optimistic form of thought would be generated. Our faith in good would grow."

In private life, if this advice were followed, there would be fewer family and personal quarrels, and a higher general level of happiness.

Specialist Declares Tuberculosis Curable

Sufferers Can Hope, For He Himself Has Recovered

Tuberculosis is a curable disease, visiting doctors were told by Dr. Frank Miller, of Los Angeles, a specialist in lung diseases, speaking before the Southwest Clinical Conference at Kansas City.

Dr. Miller said he spoke from experience when he told victims of this disease to look into the future with hope, as he himself has been cured of the disease.

The great majority of cases were amenable to treatment, he said, if the patient is willing to submit to the necessary treatment and to live carefully.

And moreover, he declared, many persons who have been pronounced cured of the disease are just as good risks, if not better, for life insurance companies than other persons.

This Dr. Miller said, was because once having been stricken by poor health, they have learned how to care for themselves, and will take care of their bodies to the strain of other persons with.

Dr. Miller does not put considerable stress on the supposed hereditary nature of the disease.

"Fifty per cent of all persons have some kind of tuberculosis infection," he said, "but only about one-third of these ever become clinical cases."

The most important aid to successful treatment, the doctor said, was the early recognition of the symptoms, and prompt systematic treatment.

After once having been cured a person may live wherever he pleases, Dr. Miller said.

Prairie City Finances

Western Cities Have Controlled Expenditures Better Than Elsewhere

Once a research body became involved in politics its usefulness was lost, Dr. H. L. Brittan, of Toronto, director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, told the Calgary taxpayers' research bureau. "Stay out of politics," was Dr. Brittan's warning to the Calgary body.

Dr. Brittan said it was the experience of his organization that western cities generally, have controlled their expenditures better than any other Canadian cities."

For a month the car travelled

Tree Planting Car Of The Canadian Forestry Association Completes Season's Work

Completing its season's work which during the past six months has taken it over 1,900 miles on the Canadian Pacific Railway Lines, in both Alberta and Saskatchewan, the tree planting car of the Canadian Forestry Association arrived in Regina recently, where the car will remain for the winter months.

Travelling over a large area of both southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, the car visited large districts where nature has not been kind during the past three, and even four years, others where conditions have been better. In fact stops were made in all kinds. At every meeting held during the year, the increased interest being taken in tree planting, and home beautification, was most noticeable, stated Alan Beaven, in charge of the car. In Alberta the car visited 43 towns, held 85 meetings to 11,900 people. The tour in Saskatchewan covered a longer period, 90 towns being visited, 214 meetings held, with a total of 30,214 attending. The total number who were present for lectures was 41,904, and this exceeds by a large number, the record of any previous year, over the same period. At many stops a second meeting, after the regular evening one, was found necessary to accommodate all the large numbers which are still alive. As the car travelled between Shaunavon and Assiniboia, many fine beets were to be seen, in which no loss of life had taken place. The same applies to many town plantings. That trees have come this far under adverse conditions is a remarkable achievement.

A most encouraging feature is the increased interest amongst the younger people. Without doubt they are becoming tree conscious. This promises a great deal for the future success of tree planting. Many of them called at the car, and others remained after the lecture, to ask questions, and secure information on many phases of the work. A few years ago this was unusual. Mr. Beaven tells of one young boy, who rode in 7 miles on horseback to be prepared for the meeting, bringing with him his available assets, amounting to 10 cents. His worry, that this amount, all he had, would not be sufficient to gain him admittance, was quickly changed, to anything but worry, on learning that he could not only see the programme, but still retain his money.

Amongst the older people, the confirmed believers of a few years ago, in the impossibility of having success with trees, have disappeared. Many still face the problems, of the necessary time, and labour required to build up beets, as well as other drawbacks to contend with, but all are sympathetic and aware of the many advantages. One man and his wife drove in 12 miles to secure information at the car, unable to remain for the meeting, they said that they had found out what they wanted, and that their trip had been well worth while. The open discussion period, at the end of the lecture, has become a popular feature, and many valuable points are expressed by experienced and successful tree planters. Many a number of years in certain districts, who previously have done nothing to beautify or protect their homes, stated their intention of making a start. Two from points widely apart, one on the Soo Branch, the other near Calgary, had been in their districts 25 years, and had made no attempt to build up a permanent home. We have lost a lot of time, they both said, but next year a start will be made.

The path is 177 feet long, 10 feet wide, and worth $177,000. Mr. W. Jones sold the surrounding tract in 1883, he reserved the right to use the path for his cows. He made his reservations so binding that the path remains, even though no cow had trudged it for 50 years. A 22-story building is on the site, utilizing air rights above the path.

Long Distance View

From an altitude of 21,000 feet, an aerial photograph was made recently which covers 250 miles of territory. The picture was taken from a point 10 miles south of the Golden Gate, and shows both San Francisco and Mount Shasta, which are 250 miles apart, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It was made by army air corps photographers who utilized the invisible infra-red light through a special filter.

Pilgrims Are Generous

Six enormous diamonds have been added to the splendid frame of brilliant which encircle the famous picture known as the Madonna of Pompeii. The huge church at Naples, Italy, which is built in honor of the picture has been crowded with pilgrims, most of whom gave their mite towards buying the new diamond.

The temperature of Venus is thought to be about 10 degrees below zero. Fahrenheit, both day and night.

Frank Sues probably wouldn't give a thin dime for his chances, nor would anyone else who witnessed this scene, when this photograph was made during an auto race at Los Angeles. The car in which Sues was traveling at terrific speed is shown in the remarkable "shot" as it cast two wheels, throwing the driver out of the cockpit. Sues slid 50 feet across the track in the path of oncoming cars, but miraculously escaped injury. A few minutes later he was at the pits looking for another car to drive.

A French blue linen made the original. The guimpe was white dimity lace.

Don't you adore the way the bodice of the dress fastens at the sides? The buttons were in matching shade inverted plates to provide the necessary "dimity" effect.

Heads lined, firmly woven cotton can also be used for the overdress as pattern and tweed effects.

It is so simple to make it. It is so deceptively individual. And it will cost you next to nothing.

British Peers Frugal Eaters

Tea Is Chief Meal According To Official Caterer

Sausages and mash is one of the favorite dishes of the British peerage, according to R. C. Vaughan, who has supplied meals to members of the House of Lords for the past twelve years.

"As a rule," he says, "the richer and the longer line aged peers are frugal feeders. Sausages and mash, cottage pie, or stews at 35c. are their favorite dish."

"There is very little originality about the tastes of the hereditary legislators. Tea is actually their chief meal in the House. And they make a meal of it, too, which is not surprising when you consider that a large pot of tea, with its limited hot water, toast, bread and butter, cream, jams, and cake, costs 24c."

Vaughan has catered for meals for five monarchs. He regards King George as having the simplest tastes, ex-King Alfonso as the greatest gourmet, and the ex-Kaiser as the most difficult to please.

Now Comes Synthetic Ivory

For centuries billiard balls have been laboriously turned by hand from natural ivory. Few workmen could produce accurate spheres. Billiard balls of synthetic ivory, which are made with mathematical accuracy, were exhibited this year at the Leipzig fair and are claimed to be superior to the old form. They assure more accurate play, besides being fracture proof and indestructible.

Theory Of French Doctor

Believes Sleeping With Head To North Prevents Insomnia

A French physician comes forward with the theory that people suffering from insomnia will sleep better and be in a much better condition the next day, if they sleep with the head to the north and the feet to the south. Magnetic currents, he claims, flow from the north to the south, which then pass easily and freely through the body and produce quiet and rest. If they pass across the body he believes they will cause nervousness and irritation, prevent sleep and produce a feeling of restlessness and lassitude the following day.

Supported By The Law

British Police Know They Have Authority Back Of Them

The British policeman is backed up by the law far more effectively than officers in some countries. When he makes an arrest there are not a thousand loopholes in the criminal law by which an unscrupulous lawyer can free his man. There are not a lot of criminals who go untouched because they have influence. The British police truly represent "the majesty of the law." He does not, as a usual thing, need to carry a weapon with him.

Christmas Seal Sale PROVIDES FUNDS FOR Fight Against Tuberculosis

THE SASKATOON SANATORIUM

One of three similar institutions operated by the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League. The others are located at Fort San and Prince Albert, and all are equipped to provide the most effective treatment known against the dread disease. Approximately 750 patients are under constant treatment at these three centres, but thanks to the development of treatment past 1931 the death rate of Christmas Seals, the death rate from tuberculosis was lower and the number of new cases less in 1931 than in the previous year. In 1931 the death rate per capita among the white population of Saskatchewan has been reduced from 40 to 28 per 100,000 population. In the year 1931 Canada dug 7,627 graves for tuberculosis patients, and in the same period Saskatchewan dug 335. The number of deaths from tuberculosis, however, is not enough and, if preventive work must be stamped out, there is no assistance given by the government or by the Government to prevent it.

The sale of Christmas Seals provides the revenue for this purpose. The old saying "prevention is better than cure" applies equally well in this case.

Preventive work is the most important phase of anti-tubercular work and this is financed by voluntary contributions. As a result of the sale of Christmas Seals in 1931, 1,000,000 persons in Saskatchewan received examination and treatment by the physicians carrying on an educational campaign.

Letters have been mailed to residents of every community in Saskatchewan containing a copy of the Christmas Seals. Their value is one dollar a sheet—one cent a seal. These seals brighten up letters and parcels and the revenue they bring in helps finance the examinations and treatments carried on by the physicians.

Prevention means discovery, less spread of the disease, a shorter period of treatment, more recoveries, less mental and physical suffering and cost to the community.

Treatment is provided for out of taxes, and in Saskatchewan today, the Rural and Urban Municipalities are the main source of contribution while the Provincial Government also pays its proportion. The tuberculosis levy charged to the municipalities in Saskatchewan, both rural and

Explanations and Comments

A Time of Great Kindness Nehemiah 8:10-17. The people had not known the requirements of the Law, and they wept when they realized how bad they had transgressed. "The priests and Levites would be present of traditional usage, and even written documents, but such knowledge was clearly not the possession of the people." — J. E. McFadyen.

Melchizedek, the priest, Ezra the priest, and the Levites comforted the people, saying: "This day is holy unto Jehovah thy God; mourn not, nor weep." The day did not help because it was a day of mourning and of the blowing of trumpets, and also because of the reading of the Law. It was an illomen to use words or signs of lamentation, for they were not to be used.

Wise men, the Levites, said: "Go thy way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet (that is, do not fast nor mourn) and send portions unto him for whom nothing is prepared."

"Neither be ye grieved," the speaker concluded, "for the joy of Jehovah is your strength." This is a reminder to us to set our hearts to create it in others. In every circle there are many who look across a distance with which they have no reason to be satisfied, who are not loving or loyal heart. Look out for these. They hide for the most part like wounded game in the thicket. Go forward to be a joy-bringer to such." — F. B. More.

An Effective Background

World's Fair Show Building Beautiful Setting For Exhibits

The World's Fair Show Building is gradually giving promise of the very beautiful background that will be afforded to the exhibits of grains and grasses from all parts of the world at the congress to be held in Regina next year. Long rows of gorgeous red pillars will be topped by a frieze of feathered grains patterned to bring out the contrasts of rich yellow wheats with the dark green of the brome grass or the pale tints of the ripe oats against the bronze of the flax.

Along the ceiling, each electric light fixture is set into a formal design likewise done in contrasting tones of plants while just below the ceiling is a mural showing Canadian industries. The immense spaces of this great building are being divided up into exhibit stalls for this and that country state.

One corner is set aside for a great replica of the E. P. Ranch at High River. The back curtain is already in place and the rivers, and man geographic features of the ranch are already outlined on the floor, while the mountains are painted into the background.

The work was pushed as rapidly as possible before it got too cold for the workers to stay there for it would require a forest fire to heat the place sufficiently for comfortable working in the winter time. A score of girls who are engaged making the designs for the pillars and walls have been moved to an office upstairs.

In the centre of the long hall is a canopied spot where the champions of all classes will be displayed.

BRITAIN MAY PLACE BAN ON U. S. IMPORTS

London.—The new British note to the United States on war debts contains a carefully worded, but none the less significant, warning that if the United States insists upon payment of the December 15 instalment the United Kingdom will be forced to take measures restricting imports of American goods.

It is emphasized in high government circles that while in the new note the British argument is fully stated and supported by facts and figures, the greatest care has been taken to put it into unprovocative form. But the note deals in no uncertain terms with the relative experiences of Britain and the United States so far as war debts are concerned.

Special attention is paid to the United States declaration that suspension of payments at this time would severely hurt the economy of the United States taxpayer. The brief and uncolored recital of the British taxpayers' efforts will probably come as a surprise to the American public which, it is felt, has been inclined to believe that if the war debts were cancelled the British taxpayer would emerge on an even keel, if not actually in pocket.

The reference to restriction of imports from the United States points out that consequent on the United States tariff the United Kingdom's power to send goods to America has diminished, and the total trade of the two countries has been seriously reduced.

Resumption of the war debt payments would necessitate the United Kingdom taking measures to restrict imports of United States goods, especially of farm products, the note declares. And it emphasizes that, as the United Kingdom is America's best customer, the results "could not fail to be unpleasant."

The interests of both the United States and Great Britain, the note stresses, lie in co-operation for a revival of world trade. Insistence upon the war debts payments would further disrupt the world's economic machinery and add to the burden of both countries.

Mine Gas Kills Five

Seventeen Others Escaped to Surface When Explosion Occurred

River Hebert, N.B.—After damp, drear scourge of the mining men claimed the lives of five more on the lower level of Maple Leaf No. 4 colliery here from this town.

Canada Big Winner

Dominion Captures Eight Titles at Chicago Grain Show

Chicago.—As the awards in the international livestock exposition and the hay and grain show began to pile up, it was found that the Dominion has annexed eight crowns out of a possible 15, and scored heavily in all classes entered.

Vernon, British Columbia, turned in the biggest upset of the show when M. S. Middleton, captured the crown for the best sample of rye in the show, forcing the favorite, Albert Robbins, of Laura, Sask., to second place.

In the durum wheat competitions, George Avery, of Kelso, Sask., took to the crown, was forced to second place by the show when T. E. Smith's samples which later took the reserve championships to Herman Treille's winning sample of hard red spring winter.

Albert led in the capturing of the coveted crowns with Herman Treille accorded the most important honor in the show—the grain championship—for the fourth time, while three other Albertans scored, Fred Hann, of St. Albert, taking the oats crown; Fred O'Connor taking the crown for alafia seed, wheat, which was the best of both divisions; and Eric Anderson, of Wembley, who took the timothy crown.

From Saskatchewan, George Avery, of Kelso, won the flax honors and has taken two seconds to date in the exhibits he has entered. Ontario has taken two crowns, field peas and the other in field beans.

Benefit to Children

Clam Salmon Oil Twice as Potent as Cod Liver Oil

Washington.—A new aid to health of children, discovery that salmon oil is twice as potent as cod liver oil in fighting the widespread childhood disease of rickets, was announced by the United States Children's Bureau.

Salmon oil contains twice as much vitamin D, the vitamin necessary to prevent and cure rickets, as does cod liver oil, until now the best known anti-rickets medicine.

The experiments were carried out with material supplied from Vancouver by R. E. Beard, in charge of research work for the Canadian Fishing Company, Limited.

The cost, to be paid in foreign currency, is 500 rubles for tourists and 1,000 rubles for all other classes. The ruble is nominally worth 50 cents in Canadian funds.

The foreigner will get his outgoing visa for the same charge assessed by his country against a Soviet passport.

A Business Revival

Baham Statistical Organization Sees Improved Conditions

"A business revival is actually in the making. The present low-water mark of business activity cannot long endure. You will be well on the road to recovery before the great mass of people realize it," was the message brought to Canadian business men by Ralph B. Wilson, vice-president of the Baham Statistical Organization.

Canadian business has struck bottom, Mr. Wilson said, pointing to a dozen or so charts of different phases in Canadian business. He particularly emphasized the activity in such barometers as car loadings, electric power, newspaper production, gold mining, a large wheat crop, a slight increase in wireless telephone services and a favorable balance of trade.

The total volume of Canadian business should be greater in 1933 than in 1932. Furthermore," he said, "because the readjustment has been so drastic it is not unreasonable to expect the volume of business to reach normal by the close of 1934 or early in 1935. If this forecast is even approximately true, there is better business ahead of the Dominion for several years to come."

"I am not saying that Canadian business is on the high road to prosperity in 1933. There is plenty of hard work ahead. I am saying that 1933 is pointing the way out—that the depression has seen its deepest point and that slow but certain improvement lies ahead." Mr. Wilson concluded.

Heroism Of Young Canadian

Lieutenant Flowerdew's Sacrifice In War Possibly Changed History

Members of the Authors' Club in London, England, were told the story of a young Canadian's heroism during the closing months of the Great War which, in the words of General J. C. Seely, war-time Canadian cavalry commander, "possibly deflected the whole course of history."

General Seely in a recent speech told the members how Lieutenant Flowerdew of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, dreaming he might win the Victoria Cross, led the attack on an important German position at Murray Ridge, capturing it at the face of heavy fire.

Flowerdew, he said, was hit his horse collapsed under him. Then, as he lay dying, he waved to his men and shouted, "Carry on, boys, we have won."

Tears streamed down the General's face as he told the story. He quoted from the official report of Flowerdew's deed, which said:

"It was a return to the days when battles were decided by the strength of men's arms, and the fury of the charge was more than the Germans could face. They broke and fled whilst the enemy, still fighting in the woods, hearing a clatter of hoofs behind them, believed themselves surrounded, and their resistance was weakened."

Luck For Fishermen On Vancouver Coast

Thousands of Small Arctic Fish Appear Near Shore

Ever hear of maitous valiosus?

Most people had never even seen them until they started to appear in thousands off the east coast of Vancouver Island, some weeks ago. Maitous valiosus is the technical name of a small fish of the smelt family.

Driven near shore by the salmon, vast hordes of the tiny fish, more commonly known as capelin, attracted fishermen from Nanaimo and other nearby cities. Rakes, nets, curtains, saucapans and other improvised gear were brought into use and the catch was bountiful.

Capelin are really an Arctic fish and seldom appear so far south.

Five Million Dollar Stadium

Big Project Now In Contemplation in Old London

Possibly a stadium may be built in Tottenham Court Rd., W., at a cost of about $5,000,000 according to the head of a prominent London real estate firm, if present negotiations in connection with real estate goes through. The stadium would provide facilities for every sort of sporting contest, dancing tournaments and ice hockey. Exhibitions would also be held there.

Trying Unusual Plan For Growing Celery

Canadian Seedlings Shipped To Bermuda Come Back Full Grown

Eugene W. Outerbridge, president of E. Worral Outerbridge Company, Bermuds, has been in Halifax outlining an experiment with which he hopes to beat the celery market by about three months.

He is growing seedlings in Canada, shipping them to Bermuda for ripening, then reshipping the full-grown celery to Canada.

"This winter," he said, "you will be given an opportunity to buy celery three months or more before the usual Bermuda product is on the market at Pictou and at Montreal."

Mr. Outerbridge was in Pictou, Nova Scotia, superintending the packing of seedlings for shipment to Bermuda. Last year he experimented in a small way, with such success that he had made extensive plantings at Pictou and at Montreal.

Two shipments, totalling 150,000 seedlings, were made from Montreal to Bermuda during October. The second shipment from Nova Scotia, 1,000,000 seedlings, left Halifax on November 1.

The Canadian National Steamships have co-operated in every way with me to land these shipments in Bermuda in excellent condition," said Mr. Outerbridge, "and I believe this year will mean a large increase of north-bound freight later on."

Ordinarily, Bermuda celery seed is planted early in October and transplanted during January and February. It is shipped north to Canada during April, May and June. The Bermuda climate will not permit earlier planting because of the hot sun.

The seedlings now being transplanted in Bermuda have already had considerable growth in Canada. Thus the full-grown celery will be shipped to Canada during January and February. It will be marketed in a distinctive crate under a registered trade-mark, Mr. Outerbridge said.

Tigers Afraid of Lions

Expert Animal Trainer Speaks From Long Experience

Any number of experts have held forth in print and picture on the relative combative merits of the lion and the tiger. These opinions have been largely academic, as the lion and the tiger dwell in different localities and seldom meet on the field of battle.

But a young man who has served as referee, you might say, in many a fight to the finish between the animals in question was in Chicago recently and gave an earful of first-hand information. He is Clyde Beatty, animal trainer for a decade in circuses, now about to make a moving picture called "The Big Cage."

"An individual tiger," prompted Mr. Beatty, "could clean up on an individual lion. But I have had more tigers killed in fights than I have lions. The tigers are afraid of the lions. That sounds funny, but the lion fights in gangs and the tiger as an individual. Lions will come to the aid of one of their kin in distress. But a tiger will sit coolly aloof and watch his brother tiger knocked out."

Beatty is the only trainer who has succeeded in working with the two species in one cage. And that's the chief cause of his twenty more or less serious injuries.

Future Is Promising

Film Floc To Be Immensely Benefited By Hudson's Bay Railway

When conditions return to normal a promising future awaits Film Floc territory in northern Manitoba, it is believed by G. C. Martin of the Martin Paper Company. The Hudson Bay Railway will prove a boon to the territory.

Building of the railway resulted in at least a valuable discovery when marble was unearthed 50 miles north of the Pas. This, he said, had been used in constructing many buildings in eastern Canada. The Hudson Bay country abounds in copper, timber, firs and numerous minerals.

It was a difficult task building the H.B. road through rock, muskeg and swamp. Several railway engineers quit in disgust and railway tactics had been reversed, the work being done in winter and ballast filled in as frost left the ground. Sink-holes abounded, he continued; into one hole 50 feet long, 55 trainloads of gravel had to be deposited.

Mr. Martin said he made a trip up the line one day and found the roadbed level. But, returning the next day the muskeg had oozed out from under the roadbed, dropping it many feet in some sections and making the line look "like a roller-coaster."

Bicycle Popular in England

Boom Said To Be Largely Due To Hard Times

The humble bicycle is making fame for itself and fortune for its manufacturers. This was a somewhat surprising fact revealed at the recent lightweight cycling, hiking, and camping exhibition held in London. So popular has the bicycle become in the past two years that 500 new cycling clubs have been formed and it is estimated that about ten million people are riding in Britain.

One manufacturer admitted that he was employing 30 per cent more workmen today than at any time during his 25 years' experience of the business.

It is probable that the general depression largely is responsible for this boom in bicycling, for there must be hundreds of one-time motorists and motorcyclists who find they can no longer afford the luxury of self-propelling vehicles and have taken to the pedal machine as the cheapest means of enjoying the countryside.

Report Will Be Interesting

British Educational Authorities Checking Up on War-Time Babies

The Great War resulted in a deplorable lack of men between the ages of 25 and 45. The older men were obliged to carry on, but there were comparatively few to follow in their footsteps. The youngsters born during the war will soon be preparing to enter on the duties of manhood and womanhood. What will be their caliber?

With a view to answering this question a new series of human records is to be established and maintained during the next four years by a number of educational authorities and schools throughout Great Britain. These documents and statistics will tell the history of boys and girls who were war-time babies. Throughout their school life these children have been watched with particular care by headmasters, headmistresses and education board inspectors. Among the physical, mental and social characteristics already noted are the following:

Health.—Generally these children, particularly if their fathers were in the navy or army during the war, are physically stronger, taller in stature, and in every way fitter than the children born since the war. This applies to girls more than to boys. There have been, however, some curious defects in the war children, for example, 17.1 per cent. of the boys and 19.8 per cent. of the girls at the age of 15 have defective vision, and require to wear glasses.

General.—The average war-time child has been good at lessons, and has reached a high standard of comparative scholarship, certainly higher than the children who ranged between the years of four and eight during the war. Where psychological tests for measuring capacity have been applied war-time children have shown better results than post-war children at comparative ages.

The results of the reports, so far, are highly satisfactory. Conditions of life are more severe than before the war, but the "war babies" give promise of overcoming them.—Torn Mall and Empire.

Calgary Woman Caters To Canadians In Isolated Places

A petite, silver-haired, bright-eyed woman, who is guide, philosopher and friend to the real he-men in the back-of-beyond lumber camps of Canada is in England, studying our library methods, says a writer in the London Daily Star. She is Miss Jessie F. Montgomery, librarian of the library division of the department of extension in the University of Alberta. She has a stranger library and conducts a more fascinating information bureau than any of her professional colleagues in this country.

Her task includes choosing and sending out of parcels of books to be read in the far-away huts of the miners and by men plunged for dreary months in the Arctic Circle night. And she posts love stories to Canadian wives in the solitude of farms 50 miles from a village. In an interview Miss Montgomery described how she receives letters from the women of these desolate farms, asking: "What is the best way to feed my six-month-old baby?" Is it too young for meat?" How shall I best preserve my fruit?" Please send me some patterns for making a dress."

"I answer hundreds of these," she said simply. "When the 11,000 books of my 'Travelling Library' come back, each one is shaken—and out of them tumble ears of wheat and oats from the wagons in which suburban workers have been reading them on some jolting journey. A box of books may travel 1,000 miles and be away for months, but so great is the appreciation and care that they come back cleaner very often than if someone in the next street had borrowed them for a day or two."

The men in the lumber camps like adventure stories. They are the 100 per cent. he-men, I suppose, and they like a good red-blooded story. "A few pretty love stories, but they will not have the highbrow modern sex problem novel at any price."

Finishing Bacon Hogs

Information Gained Through Experiments At Napan, Nova Scotia

The low price of pork and bacon products very often results in the marketing of unfinished hogs. This in turn forces the market to even lower levels and results, in many cases, in losses to the producer, whereas the sale of a finished product would have shown a profit. In these times of depression the advantages of marketing only superior quality products are even more marked when prices are high. For example, in 1929 when hogs were selling for 12 cents per pound or more, the premium on a select hog was $1 or an increase in the value of a 200 pound hog of 4.17 per cent. In 1932, with a price of 4 cents per pound, the increase in value on a select hog is 12.5 per cent. Similarly the percentage dockage on grades below bacon is increased with a decrease in hog prices.

The Dominion Experimental Farm at Napan, Nova Scotia, has been conducting various experiments over a period of years, comparing various feeds for growing and finishing bacon hogs. Space does not permit a detailed account of all these experiments, but they include comparisons of skim-milk, tankage and fish meal, mannaeas and swedes for green feed, corn and barley, and oats, middlings and barley.

The results in general show that home grown feeds such as barley are equal to imported feeds for finishing hogs. Skim milk is a valuable substitute for skim-milk, and when the price is not too high, can be used to advantage.

One point brought out during these tests is the value of having an early maturing strain of hogs to start with. For example, in 1929 two groups of hogs by the same sire from two different sows were fed alike. One group showed an average daily gain of 1.22 pounds, and the feed cost per pound gain was 7.80 cents, while the other group gained 1.31 pounds per day and cost 7.16 cents per pound.

Proper type, plus uniform finish, commands a premium on the open market, and any increase in our bacon production must be based on these points if progress is to be made.

She said, "You know what I want to talk about?" She asked pointedly, "When your term is up next month, are you going to re-enlist or not?"

Alan knew that Elizabeth was determined to have him stay, and that she should get out of the Mackenzie and take a good salaried position down in Victoria, which Colonel Steele, commander of his regiment in the World War, had been wanting him to accept. But he was loath to take a job on a friendship basis; he preferred to stand on the more self-respecting ground of honest work honestly performed. And to leave this land where he had found freedom and happiness was an intolerable prospect. He loved this northern Mackenzie country as intensely as he hated the hectic stifling oppression of city life; and his comradeship with men like Bill Hardsock was precious to him.

If he tore himself away from all this, if he became a mere cog in an industrial machine, he would be uprooted and miserably unhappy.

But as things stood, he was in a blind ally. Hardsock was riding him hard for personal reasons; a rank injustice had been done him.... There were a dozen powerful arguments on the other side, too.

After a moment he said slowly: "I suppose I oughtn't to sign on again. But it's hard to decide, Elizabeth."

"What is there to decide about? How can you tolerate the situation? In it? You're a fool, a gullible, talking orders; you're liable to be deceived; you're compelled to do another man's work for him! You don't think your situation is going to change? You aren't expecting a commission any more now, I hope? Then under heaven do you want to stay?"

Alan started to answer, but he checked the words. His reasons were deep and intangible things—his friendships, the freedom he'd found here, the sense of being rooted in the country, his ramified duties that held him with invisible bonds; his unwillingness to desert comrades when they sorely needed him, his reluctance to give the impression of having quit just because a commission was not forthcoming.

Down on the river bank Bill Hardsock came skimming full-till up to the landing, swerved the canoe around in a complete circle to stop it, leaped out upon the plankings, tossed the painter to a sleepy Loucheau. He did not seem to notice Inspector Hardsock only a couple rods away. At a lop he headed up the terrace, straight for Alan's cabin, as though Alan was the man to hear his news.

"If you had nothing to turn to," Elizabeth persisted, "it would be a little different. But you've got a position waiting, at four times your present salary, with advancement sure, with a chance to make even more on the use going over and over these arguments? We've gone over them a dozen times. I didn't come for that."

She paused a second to emphasize her next words. "If you intend to stay in the Mounties, I wish you would tell me so frankly, so that I can plan...."

It was an ultimatum. She meant it so; Alan understood it so. But she saw too that it had antagonized him a little. Though she must be firm now, she must head off any antagonism.

Dropping her coldness, she got up and stood beside him where he sat on the corner of the table.

"Alan! Don't you realize how intolerable it is for me—not being with you two hours in a whole week? And if we were married, he—Haskell—he'd make it even worse. You know why he's sending you out on those patrols and letting you be here just long enough to manage the post. When you're gone he forces his company on me. If I'd repulse him, he'd—he'd take it out on you! I've got to let him!"

A slow red crept into Alan's face and his fist clenched. He had wondered, sometimes with nameless suspicions, why she allowed Haskell to stay so much in her company. Mrs. Drummond and others had hinted about it to him, implying it was not very honest of her. Here was the real reason! It had never occurred to him that Elizabeth had been permitting it for his sake.

He thought: "I can't blame her for not wanting to live here in the North. Her brother died here; she isn't my friend; these folk don't understand. If she wants to live in a city, that's natural, as much her right. She'd like to have pleasures, clothes, and other things we'll have when I take that Victoria job. Wouldn't any girl want them?"

Alan Was Not the Fool to Believe Haskell Was Bluffing.

Bill Hardsock came past the alcove window, hating, excited. Elizabeth saw him, and realized her talk with Alan was broken. But she had not greatly care. She had given him her ultimatum, she had headed off any antagonism; and what she said about Haskell had galvanized him as nothing else could have done.

She half-whispered, running her fingers through his hair. "You've been here less than an hour, we've had less than ten minutes together, and now—something else happens and you'll be gone again!" She kissed him quickly and turned away.

As Bill Hardsock stamped into the cabin he burst out: "Oh Lord, Alan, Sammy-hell sure popped down river! The Midnight Sun, bringing up a raft of furs from the Ramparts country, and gold dust, too, a whole wad of it from the Peel and Arctic Red Piers.... Down there, mouth of the Big Allocoke, when she was taking on her load, half a dozen men bounded in broad daylight, and robbed her, right this close to us!"

"Robbed her? Who-as-t!"

"That's what they did. They came over the side like as if they were ordinary trappers; they got a clear drop on the crowd, and had the run of the boat for better'n half an hour!"

Alan leaped to the all-important question. "They didn't escape, Bill?

They didn't get by with a trick like that?"

"Scarcely hearing him, Bill kept pouring out his news. "They took more'n three hundred pounds of meat, and sorted out half a dozen packs of the best and lightest furs. Alan, they shot and killed Jimmy Montgomery! He was the only one that drew a gun against 'em, and a rifle had him man-to-man fashion."

Alan bade him: "Larry, drop that. Go and help Bill out. I'll tell you what's what!"

It was rare that Inspector Haskell allowed his temper to get the upper hand. He had learned self-control in the hard army school, and he considered that any exhibition of temper was a plebian thing. But when Alan Baker came into the cabin, Haskell was thoroughly and hotly angered.

A dozen things had happened this morning to irritate him. Constable Whipple, his stool pigeon, a thin

Daughter's Pride In Active Father

"I feel in duty bound," writes Mrs. A. J. W., "to express my gratitude for the marvellous results my father has obtained from Kruschen Salts. They should really be called 'Miracles.' He is ninety-two years old and is as fit as a fiddle. He can nap about, and run up and down stairs. His friends marvel why it is that he can do such things. He always tells them the reason, 'my regular daily dose of Kruschen Salts every morning.' We are very much recommended Kruschen Salts to all our friends. To my mind, no family should be without it."

(Mrs.) A. J. W.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the healthy Kruschen habit and they are reborn. The system New, healthy, blood goes coursing through the veins. And almost immediately they feel young, refreshed and happy. In a word, they've got that famous "Kruschen Feeling."

... A rifle bullet.... He was the only one who drew a gun—"But he could not speak; he could only stare at Bill."

"And if Father Claverley hadn't stepped in and helped stop a rush, Alan, they'd have shot up the whole deck. They shung the dust and furore into their canoes, and.... Did they get away? What brought me busting up the stairs? I saw they did—yep, sister-in-a whistler."

In the pause then, Alan fought to shake off his daze. He had to make the plans, fling out a patrol, get into action.... It was all in his hands—the pursuit, the capture, the whole heavy responsibility.

He demanded: "Who were they? Trappers, did you say?"

"Un' know who, Alan. But strangrers. Five whites and one 'breed.'

"Strangers? Can't be! Not in this country."

"But that's what they were. Nobody on the boat had ever seen a single one of 'em."

Alan did not believe this, but for the moment he passed it up.

"Which way did they go? Have motors on their canoes?"

"No. Paddle craft. They whipped up the Big Allocoke."

For a little space Alan stood thinking. Why had those bandits staged their robbery there at the mouth of the Allocoke, instead of farther down north, at some lonely reach along the Mackenzie? In an instant he saw the answer to that question. They had chosen with an eye to a quick escape, an escape to the best hiding place in all Mackenzie territory.

As he imagined them whipping up the Big Allocoke, whipping up that lonely spruce-buried river past MacMillan's trading post, his thoughts leaped to Joyce, and a fear came into his eyes.

Edging this very far, Bill said: "I'll have to pass MacMillan's place. Alan, Tenz chances to one, Dave's gone out somewhere after spring poultry and Joyce is there all by herself...."

"But maybe they won't stop," Alan argued. His words were more a prayer for Joyce. "They'll probably try to sneak past...."

"Bill, go down to barracks, find Ted, tell him to get the launch in shape to travel. While you're doing that, I'll go tell Haskell."

Halfway down the slope Alan came upon Constable Larry Young, who was spreading Haskell's bed clothing on the grassy terrace to sun.

An older man, past forty, a native of this Waterways country, Larry had spent his boyhood years living with the Mounted. Larry was going about his "squawker" with stoical face, chalking up his record score against the time he would be out of service and could settle with Haskell in man-to-man fashion.

Alan bade him: "Larry, drop that. Go and help Bill out. I'll tell you what's what!"

It was rare that Inspector Haskell allowed his temper to get the upper hand. He had learned self-control in the hard army school, and he considered that any exhibition of temper was a plebian thing. But when Alan Baker came into the cabin, Haskell was thoroughly and hotly angered.

I SAW
Frank Laut advising friends to sell their wheat before "R. B." arrives in England and "blast" the market down a little further.

Happy MacMillan threatening to buy a petroscope on account of cold weather. Some prominent farmers buying butter and canned milk and hollering about depression.

Adam Cruckshank cooking supper for himself and a friend in the basement of the hotel.

One of the members of our teaching staff with a diamond on her finger. Good luck to ABC.

"No sir," said the clerk, "I can't give you a room. The best I can do for you is to give you half a private dining room. There's a screen across it, and a lady has got the other half, but I reckon she won't bother you."

Thirty minutes later he ran into the lobby, wild-eyed and pale.

"Hey," he yelled to the clerk, "that woman is dead."

"I know it," said the clerk, "but how did you find out?"

Government Financing

Governments also "move in a mysterious way their wonders to perform" in financing on the "sound money" theory.

Two or three weeks ago the Dominion government borrowed $35,000,000 from the banks at 4 per cent. It gave the banks treasury notes in return. The banks can deposit the notes with the Government and get Dominion bills in exchange; paying 3 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Swanson and daughter Helen of Bottrell, were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McCool.

Mrs. Mair, Miss Kathleen Mair, Miss Margaret Murdoch and Miss Myrtle Metheral were visitors in Calgary on Saturday.

On account of the illness of Rev.

G. E. Rogers of Carstairs, Mr.

Young took his service at Cremona last Sunday afternoon.

Gettle Brothers have given up the idea of running the skating rink this winter, and we understand that Fred Heywood and Ben McLean have taken on the job and will start flooding this week.

Hank Sievert returned on Sunday after spending the week in Calgary. Hank says he had a very pleasant time although he was some what riled up over what he paid the Government for a bottle of Scotch.

In the National hockey league

Sunday night the Chicago Black Hawks trimmed the New York Rangers at Chicago 4-3. Donnie McFadyn got an assist in scoring the winning goal, as it was his perfect pass in front of the goal that enabled Cook to score.

The editor of the Chronicle has received a National Hockey program from Donnie McFadyn. The book published by the Madison Square Garden Corporation, and not only gives the dates of all games in the league but also gives a complete history of hockey and hockey players.

At a farm house west of town on a certain day last week, an argument arose as to who was going to take sister and the newly acquired husband to their new home in the Rocky Mountain House district.

Jim said he was, Charlie said he was, so Pa, who had been listening to the argument, decided that neither of them would, but he himself would do the needful, so early next morning the bride's effects were loaded in the truck, behind which broom and groom and dad climbed in the front seat and a start was made.

Anyhow to cut a long story short, on the way home she decided she would rather walk than ride in a Ford truck, and made a jump overboard. The result was the truck was turned over in the ditch in a snow bank, and the bride and groom and dad found themselves in a mixture of jam, fruit jars, china, etc. Meanwhile broom was making an effort to get loose from this mess.

After sometimes things were picked up; the truck put on the road again, and although showing the effects of broom's misbehaviour was still able to run. Dad suffered several cuts about the hands and face. The bride and groom arrived home with black eyes and bruises.

Neighbors, seeing the plight of the newlyweds, the welcome pre-arranged was postponed.
